The FarmVille game is a huge time-sink. If you want to live in a world full of green fields, it's your only option. Since FarmVille is a social game, sharing your accomplishments with others is highly encouraged. There are also many tasks available, which can be done to earn extra money or resources. It is now possible to run a virtual farm in the world of Minecraft, thanks to a mod called "FarmVille" for Minecraft. FarmVille is a multi-platform game played across the Internet on Facebook, Xbox 360, and iOS (iPhone and iPod Touch). It was one of the first Facebook games to be released and still one of the most popular. The application has been downloaded over 200 million times and has been played by over 100 million people on Facebook.

Gameplay Players of the game farm crops, animals, and fight off pests. The player builds, and in turn farms, houses, and villages. Buildings and plants will provide stat boosts, such as faster growth, more food, and more money. Animals such as sheep, pigs, and cows can also be raised for meat, wool, or milk, and once a player has a certain number of animals, a player can breed them to yield offspring. Players may also choose to engage in missions. If a player goes to a farm, asks the Farmer to tell them where to go, and does some work, they may earn money, or resources such as stones, wheat, or honey. Players can also buy any of these items from the Farmer. The player can also send players to other players' farms, in order to trade items, or to give them items to fight off pests. Players may also give other players gifts, which they can receive in return. The player may give money to other players, in the form of a gift, or as a means of payment for services such as helping to defeat a pest. Gifts can be given to friends, in the form of a postcard, or to anyone, in the form of a golden carrot. Players who receive the gift may then repay the player by giving them some of their own, if they wish. Pets, commonly called farm animals, do not age, but if they die or leave the player's farm, the player must buy replacement animals. Items, called crops, are grown in the fields. The player may harvest crops with a combine, or give f3e1b3768c
